

Commissary

The Commissary Store often served as a barometer for base morale. Shortages caused the barometer to fall, while sudden affluences of scarce items caused morale to soar. For the three Navy men and 32 local nationals manning the store, the task of maintaining more than 2,000 items proved to be a challenge far beyond that normally experienced by even the largest commissary complex - but hunger was never a threat!

SHC DEFRIES
SK1 JOHNSON

LT WILLIAM ACKERMANN
Commissary Store Officer

